Nature of Public Administration

Kautilya Arthshastra

- Arthshastra ≠ Economics
- Arthashastra = Law, Administration and Statecraft, including general laws of economics and military strategies
- Written in Sanskrit
- Authored by Kautilya, commonly identified as Chanakya or Vishnugupta
- Kautilya mentions earlier authors too, upon which his treatise evolved
- It was lost but rediscovered By R.Shamashastry in 1905
- Very pragmatic, logical, no sentiments
- Very detailed in every respect – weights, lengths, measures, value in terms of pana (currency)
- Even fortification of the capital and security of the royal palace are also covered
- 15 Parts (adhikaranas), 180 topics (Prakaranas)
- Compared to Machiavelli's 'The Prince' of "sukha" or all true pleasantness is "dharma" or conduct.

- The basis of all "dharma" is "artha" or wealth.
- The basis of all "artha" is "rajya" or the State.
- The basis for the stability of the State lies in control over the "indriya" or sense faculties providing pleasure.
- The basis for control over the sensual faculties is in "vinaya" or humility.
- The basis for humility is devotion to those grown old through wisdom.
- Through devotion to the wise, one attains Vijnana; knowledge.
- It is imperative for all the functionaries of the State to perform their duties on the basis of realized and tested knowledge.
- To perform State duties with the maximum efficiency, the functionaries of the State must learn to control their sensual needs, and maximize their internal potential.
- Those who have vanquished their baser selves will become prosperous naturally, can retain their prosperity, and (will)

Management Functions

- According to Henry Fayol, “To manage is to forecast and plan, to organize, to command, & to control”. Whereas Luther Gullick has given a keyword ‘POSDCORB’ where P stands for Planning, O for Organizing, S for Staffing, D for Directing, Co for Co-ordination, R for reporting & B for Budgeting.
- But the most widely accepted are functions of management given by KOONTZ and O’DONNEL i.e. Planning, Organizing, Staffing, Directing and

Planning

<https://www.dreamstime.com/illustration/multiple-pathways.html>

- “Planning is deciding in advance - what to do, when to do & how to do. It bridges the gap from where we are & where we want to be”. A plan is a future course of actions. It is an exercise in problem solving & decision making.
- Planning is determination of courses of action to achieve desired goals.

Why Study Gig Economy?

- The first is that full time jobs are disappearing. Instead of creating jobs companies are increasingly disaggregating work from a job.
- Full-time employees are becoming the worker of last resort. The trends of hiring part-time workers and independent contractors, automating, and outsourcing have become persistent, widespread, and are growing.
- Low engagement of full time workers (Gallup surveys), independent workers are more satisfied with nearly every aspect of their working lives than employees (McKinsey survey), 74% freelancers prefer being an independent worker and have no intention of returning to a (Future Workplace/Field Nation survey).

Inherent in the gig economy is the choice, autonomy, flexibility, and control that drive worker satisfaction, but which full-time employees often lack.

MBA students interested in pursuing contract work, consulting projects, and freelance assignments need to prepare themselves to find or create opportunities.

Specialty of Gig Economy Firms from the Perspective of HRM

- No direct employment
- Flexibility to the workers and for the companies
- Firms are powerful and can control the behavior of the associates

- Changing nature of staffing

Specialty of Gig Economy Firms from the Perspective of HRM

- No direct employment

Different Concepts to Describe the Notion Of Independent Workers

- Crowdsourcing (Nakatsu et al., 2014),
- Elancing (Aguinis and Lawal, 2013),
- Independent contracting (Kuhn and Maleki, 2017),
- “Work on Demand via App” (Aloisi, 2016)
- Interim/ freelance project work (Keegan et al., 2018)

Different Nature of Gig Economy Works

- elancing and “work on demand via app” may involve the sourcing of micro-tasks that are highly structured (e.g. delivering meals or translating a piece of text)
- Short-lived assignments which are less structured and more creative in nature, such as idea generation, idea evaluation or problem-solving activities
